

To Let Wolf Rd. Contract Mon. July 7

For the second time bids are being advertised by the Will County Bond Issue Committee for the construction of two bridges, one north and one south of Mokena and for the paving of Wolf Road from the Cook and Will County line north of Mokena south to the Lincoln Highway.

Mr. Fred Francis, chairman of the Bond Issue Committee has announced that the contract for the construction of Wolf Road will be let Monday morning, July 7th at 10 a. m., in the office of the county engineer, Glenn Fletcher.

It is expected that work on the construction of Wolf Road will start very shortly after the contract is given the final approval of the State Highway Department in Springfield.

The first time the contract was awarded was last spring but the contract was rejected when the county committee found that the necessary right of way had not been secured.

All the right of way in the vicinity of the bridges has been secured now and only four more dedications have to be secured which will complete the right of way to the Cleveland farm.

Whether or not Wolf Road will be run straight thru the Cleveland wood land as originally surveyed or if the routing will be changed, has not been decided on as Mr. Cleveland has not as yet met with the county committee to talk over the matter. Senator R. J. Barr has gone over the land at the request of Mr. Cleveland.

From present indications it would appear that the gap on Wolf Road thru Mokena will be closed by fall.

Well Known New Lenox and Homer Couple Married

The spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Frazer, of Homer township, was the scene of a beautiful simple wedding ceremony on Wednesday evening, June 25, at 8 o'clock, when their eldest daughter, Dorothy Bell, was united in marriage to Mr. Wilbur Harold Francis, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur A. Francis, of New Lenox township.

To the strains of wedding music played by Miss Stella Gains, pianist and Miss Hazel Gains, violinist, of Lockport the bride and groom took their places in front of a bank of flowers, where they were married by the Rev. Mr. Ross, of New Lenox M. E. church, while Miss Gains softly played a group of love-songs. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon over satin with a lace veil and her bouquet was white roses. The dining and living rooms were made festive with many yellow and white daisies.

The guests included the immediate families of the bride and groom, and the bride's grandmothers, Mrs. Bernice G. Frazer and Mrs. Susan Gots, both of Lockport.

Following the ceremony a dainty two-course supper was served, after which the newly weds left for a motor trip through Wisconsin which will include the Dells. After their return they will reside at the Francis farm where the groom is engaged in the dairy business with his father.

An interesting item is the fact that June 25, twenty-five years ago, was the date of Mr. Francis's parents wedding.

Miss Frazer was a graduate of L. T. H. S., class of '27, and later attended Joliet Junior college. For the past two years she has taught at the Hadley school. Mr. Francis graduated from J. T. H. S. in 1924.

This wedding unites two families who have been prominent in their respective communities for several generations. The young people are deservedly popular and have the good wishes of a host of friends.

Big Sewer Project Planned

The Midlothian Messenger carried an exclusive story last week to the effect that plans will be announced shortly for a trunk sewer system from Oak Forest, down California avenue to the proposed Posen outlet. Intercepting sewers are planned for Midlothian, Markham and part of Harvey. The estimated cost is set at $1,268,000, part of which will be paid by the sanitary district, part by the county board and the rest by special assessment—for the first time in the history of the sanitary district.

It will be a strictly sanitary sewer, about 24" in diameter at Oak Forest, increasing to 8 feet at the Sag Channel. Another system to care for surface water will be constructed at some later date. For the time being it will empty into the Sag without treatment—at some future time a plant will treat the sewage.

NOTICE

Dr. John Mitchell will conduct a clinic for crippled children and adults on Wednesday, July 2nd, between the hours of 8:30 and 12:00 a. m., in the Public Health Council rooms, Joliet.

Owing to change in plans, the next Infant Welfare Conference at Orland Park, will be held July 9th instead of August 20th as previously announced.

We would like all the children that are starting to school for the first time in September to come to this Conference as we want them to get examined and be in good condition for school in September.

The Orland Station is for all children living in the townships of Orland and Palos and the town of Worth.

TINLEY PARK GARDEN NOTES

GOLDENROD

A clump of Goldenrod
Beside the traveled way,
It sprang from dusty sod—
That clump of Goldenrod.
Still 'tis the smile of God
To those who pass all day
That clump of Goldenrod
Beside the traveled way.

—Beverly Bell.

Our flower show chairman, Mrs. John Werth held a committee meeting down at Anderson's home in the woods.

Plans were made for the float that the Garden Club will enter for the Lions Club parade on July 4th.

It certainly was an ideal spot to sit and talk under the lovely large oak trees. The Andersons have these lovely trees to enjoy all summer long.

The Garden Club members please return your embroidery squares to Mrs. J. C. Funk as soon as possible. The big event of the season will soon be here, our fourth annual flower show, so be sure and care for all the pretty flowers, so the club can once again make this the show of shows.

Gardening has no rival as a means of putting color into the life for it has a quadruple reaction. First there is the joy of making things grow; second there is the increased health and vigor that comes from that form of labor; third there is the fun of beautifying a part of the world, no matter how small; and last what bountiful gifts are yours to take on your friendly visits—fruits and flowers and vegetables in abundance.

Children Are In Fire Caused By Lamp Bursting

A tragic fire caused the death of two children near Homewood Sunday evening. The fire occurred at the Zielstra home on 183rd street near Homewood. The parents left five children at home while they took some family visitors to the I. C. depot at Homewood.

The children were in bed upstairs when an oil lamp burning downstairs burst and in the resulting fire the stairs caught fire trapping the children. Three were saved, but a boy of 10 years and his sister 7 years old, were so badly burned that they died shortly after.

FLOWERS

Flowers, flowers, beautiful flowers,
Unfolding to brighten, this dark world of ours;
The pale sweet blossoms of early spring,
Bright clusters the day of summer bring,
And the gifts of princely autumn to.

Stately and tall, of richest hue,
No painters skill, can e'er portray,
The countless beauties they display.

The Mokena Garden Club met at the country home of Mrs. L. G. Bruder for their regular meeting, Tuesday afternoon.

Eighteen members were present. Minutes of the June meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. A. C. Hall. Mrs. Steele, correspondence secretary read a letter of invitation from the Tinley Park Garden Club inviting the Mokena Garden Club to co-operate with exhibits at the Tinley Park Club's flower show on August 20th. The invitation was readily accepted by the club. Mrs. Pfleger, chairman of Flower Guild Work reported splendid co-operation of club members and citizens. Several letters of appreciation were read from grateful recipients. One letter from the Church Home for Aged Persons, 5445 Ingleside ave., having received a box of 48 small tray bouquets from a Mokena club member, showed how welcome the flowers were. The Camp Fire Girls and Guardian are showing a splendid spirit in sending their contributions of flowers and fruit and need to be complimented for their work. A work costing so little, brings wonderful returns, let us all share of our bit with those less fortunate.

August being the month for our election of officers, a nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Herman Schweser, Mrs. John Horras and Mrs. Roesener were appointed to nominate officers for the ensuing year.

July 11, 1930 being the club's 1st anniversary, plans are being made for a picnic outing to be held at Highland Park to celebrate the occasion. Program chairman, Mrs. H. F. Mall read an article on "Little Tricks with Flowers and The Moonlight Plant." Mrs. Braun read an interesting article on "Flowering of Many Plants." After a general discussion the meeting was adjourned. Mrs. Lowitz of Beverly Hills was a guest at the club meeting.

Mrs. Harry Mall will entertain the club, August 5th. Mrs. Smith will be a guest speaker.

The Rev. Fr. Daly of Lake Forest read the ring ceremony and following a nuptial high mass was sung.

The High Altar was decorated with white peonies and the sanctuary was decorated with huge bouquets of blue larkspur and yellow roses.

The bride wore an ivory satin dress; her tulle veil was trimmed with lace and was caught at the cap by a spray of orange blossoms. She was given away by her father and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

A wedding breakfast was later served at the home of the bride's parents to thirty-four guests.

About one-thirty the happy couple evaded their guests and secretly sped away on their honeymoon.

They visited the beautiful Dells of Wisconsin and other scenic points of the state.

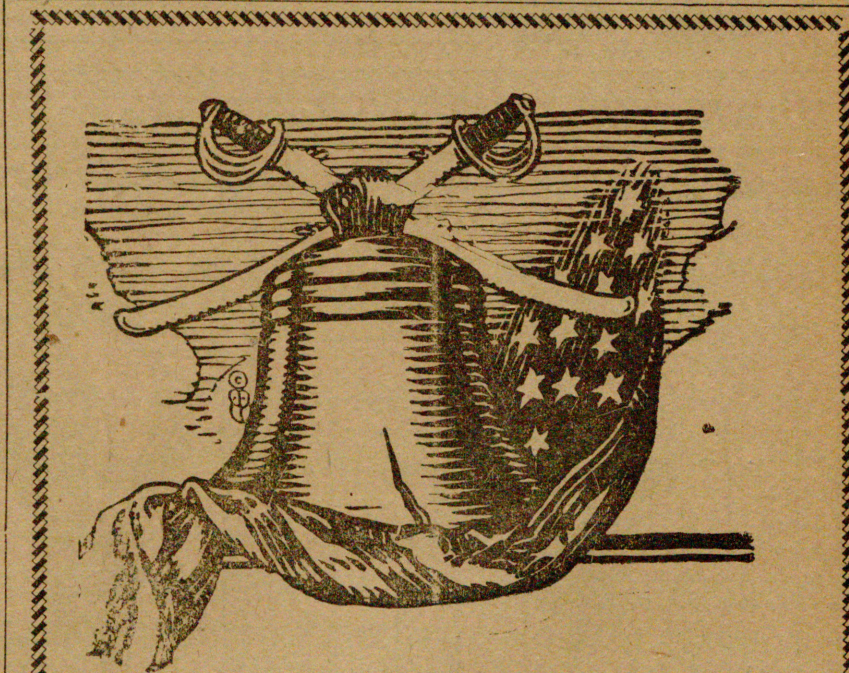

The bride, a very amiable young lady, is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Terry of Highland Park and has held a position as treasurer of the Public Service of Lake Forest for sometime. THE VALUE OF
SOUND DESIGN

New Ford engine gives outstanding acceleration, speed and power without sacrificing reliability or economy

THE good performance of the Ford car, so apparent on every highway, is due largely to the sound mechanical design of the engine.

It has outstanding acceleration, speed and power, yet that is only part of its value to you. Greater still is the fact that it brings you all these features without sacrificing either reliability or economy.

That is the reason the Ford car has given such satisfactory service to millions of motorists all over the world and has been chosen by so many large companies that keep accurate cost figures. In every detail of construction it has been carefully planned and made for the work it has to do.

The design of the compression chamber is an important factor in the efficiency of the Ford engine. It is built to allow free passage of gases through the valves and to thoroughly mix the fuel by producing turbulence within the cylinders during compression. The spark thus flashes quickly through the whole fuel charge, resulting in quieter and more effective engine performance.

Other factors are the direct gravity gasoline feed, the specially designed carburetor, the new hot-spot manifold, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves of larger diameter, statically and dynamically balanced crankshaft and flywheel, the simplicity of the electrical, cooling, lubrication, and fuel systems and accuracy in manufacturing.

EAGLES WIN GREAT GAME FROM ACES

The Midlothian Eagles downed the powerful Aces, Sunday by the score of 12 to 8 before the largest crowd ever attending a ball game in Midlothian.

For the first two innings it looked like the Aces were going to win thumbs up, but the Eagles spread their wings dug in their claws and fought the Aces to a standstill for the last seven innings.

It required three Ace pitchers to withstand the terrific onslaught of the Eagle sluggers. Pat Rafferty, the Aces star hurler, started the game but retreated to the welcome showers in the 3rd round. Then they brought out their southpaw twirler, Band, but the Eagles liked his port arm serving so well, they knocked him loose from the pitching mound in the 6th frame. Then they had to call on their shortstop Jenkins to try his hand at clipping the Eagles bats. He managed to struggle through the last 3 innings allowing the Eagles great little hurler, Ossie Gronwall, pitching his usual steady game, scattering the Aces hits, and bearing down in the pinches like an old veteran was able to chalk up his 4th straight victory of the season. Ossie was well backed up by the Eagles steady fielding, especially by Jake Hille in center field and the catching of DeRudder. The Eagle hitters led by Bellows and Stuart with 3 each and Brosart with 2 continued to batter down all opposition.

The Aces made a desperate attempt to overcome the Eagles lead in the 8th inning managing to tie the score. However a fast double play Brosart to DeRudder to Brosart quelled the rally. Not to be outdone, the Eagles filled the bases in the last of the 8th, and with 2 out Nick Stuart smashed a terrific triple over Stevensons head. Nick scored the final run a minute later on Hilles single. That final burst took all the life out of the Aces and they went down One, two, three in the last inning, surrendering the championship to the lofty Eagles.

Next Sunday the Eagles take on the Friscos on the latter's diamond at 3 o'clock.

Letter of Thanks Sent to Committee

Under date of June 27th the following letter was mailed to L. R. Burdett, Burt Johnson, J. S. Knight and H. A. Stanton, members of the Citizens' committee on the purchase of the fire truck:

"The President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Midlothian wish to express their sincere appreciation of the work done by you and the citizen's committee in assisting them to pick the best fire apparatus suited to our needs.

"I am sure that the village as a whole will join us and applaud your efforts. Work such as you have done should not go unrewarded but we are sure that no monetary reward can equal the satisfaction which we know you feel that in doing this work you have been of great service to the people of the Village of Midlothian which after all is the main thing.

Very truly yours,
Wm. R. Shallers, Village Clerk.

FIREWORKS IN HARVEY

Stephen H. Herold, vice-commander of the Harvey Post of the American Legion, has extended an invitation to Bremen residents to attend the free fireworks display at Harvey on the night of the 4th. A 21 gun salute will open the day at 6 a. m. The celebration is under the auspices of the Harvey Legion.

Bremen Township Health Topics

Eleanor Gallagher, R. N.

We are very proud of the splendid attendance at the Child Welfare Conference in Robbins, June 19th. There were 35 children present, which is largely due to a campaign put on by the local ladies to stir up interest in the care of the babies and pre-school children. A Welfare committee of which Mrs. Roy Thomas is chairman is putting forth every effort to get all mothers with small children to attend these conferences to enable them to keep closer check up on the progress being made by their children and also to be in a position to get physical defects, such as tonsils, vaccinations, and toxin anti-toxins taken care of before the child becomes school age. By doing this they give their child a chance to start school without a handicap. Mrs. Gertrude Anderson, a member of the Welfare Committee helped Dr. Winston and the mothers with the children during the examination.

WATER BILLS OCCUPY MARKHAM BOARD

Discussion of what the county owes Markham, of what Harvey wants from Markham, and forms for bills occupied most of the board meeting in Markham last Thursday night. Attorney John Charles Lewy reported that the county board was about to send Harvey $20,000 in part of their account with Oak Forest. The board will still owe Markham a considerable amount. Broken seals are reported on the meters, which are said to be running in reverse at present.

An ordinance was passed permitting the village to shut off water 45 days after a past due notice has been sent. The finance committee will investigate a depositor's bond on the bank to protect the village funds.

FOOSE FAMILY IN AUTO CRASH SUNDAY

As George Foose, Jr., was driving on Lake Shore drive Sunday a car in front of him suddenly stopped; swerving and jamming on the brakes did not save him from crashing into the car ahead. Robert Foose, 4, cut a two-inch gash in his head when he struck the windshield and broke the glass; Mrs. Dorothy Goldschmidt received a bruised eye and side; Mrs. George Foose injured her thumb.

The cars were damaged, but not very seriously.

Notice of Garbage Removal

The truck furnished by the village board will begin collection of rubbish Monday, July 7, starting at Kedzie ave., the truck working West. Have your refuse ready.

Next month's dates will be printed later.

WHO'S WHO in MIDLOTHIAN

Kenneth Sidell, commander of Midlothian Post No. 691, American Legion, and trustee of the village, was born in Denver, Colorado, on March 7, 1897; he is the son of August and Angelina Sidell.

His early schooling was obtained at the Marquette Grammar School in Madison, Wisconsin. He attended the University of Wisconsin High school and later spent eighteen months at the University.

At the age of 19 he left for Brazil to investigate a rubber plantation. He found the heat on the Amazon almost unbearable — 115 degrees in the daytime and 99 degrees at night. Hordes of mosquitoes made it necessary to close the sleeping quarters almost airtight. Coming back to the United States, he entered the employ of the Federal Rubber Co., of Cudahy, Wis.

Mr. Sidell enlisted at the outbreak of the war with the engineers. He went to Camp Douglas, then to Waco, then to the Tuscania. Off the north of Ireland the boat was torpedoed. He was among those picked up by an English sub-chaser. From Ireland he went to Wales, then England, hence across to Le Harve, France. Between March and November he was on the front lines. One of his many vivid memories is of the time Quentin Roosevelt's plane was shot down over his trench.

After the war Mr. Sidell entered the employ of W. H. Salisbury & Company, the oldest rubber company in the western U. S. He has been there nine years and now is general superintendent.

On May 22, 1922, he married Henrietta Rudolph of Michigan City, Indiana. They have two children, Kenneth Jr., 4, and Patricia, 2. Incidentally, he has two sisters in the Follies.

In the village election last year he was elected trustee; in the following October he became commander of the Legion post.

One Sidewalk Bid Received; Board Rejects

Only one bid was received on the McIntosh sidewalk job and none on the 41st ave. job when the board of local improvements opened the bids at a special meeting Monday night. The lone bidder G. Kehl, made a price of $48,237.61; as there was no competition, the bid was rejected and re-advertising ordered for next week.

Attorney Francis A. Harper, who presided in the absence of President Richard White, explained that it is practically impossible to finance special assessment bonds at the present time. It was said that the estimate did not allow sufficient margin for bonding houses to handle; on the other hand a higher estimate would make the cost of the sidewalks excessive.

In consideration of $125 worth of material for the playground the small triangle adjoining the Nagel & Stolz property was ordered vacated and turned over to that concern.

A dog tax ordinance was passed, fixing the tax at $2 per dog, male or female. Owners of dogs without the metal tags after July 1 will be subject to fines of from $2 to $20 and the dogs may be killed. During the summer months dogs must be chained or kept muzzled.

Collection of rubbish (not garbage) will start July 7th. Dates for the various sections are noted elsewhere in this issue.

New Precinct For Oak Forest

Frank Kriz, county commissioner, is credited with the statement that a new precinct will be formed for the Oak Forest district, to be known as number 7. Charles Debbing, Republican committeeman from precinct 4, will become committeeman of the new precinct. It is said that Wm. Kuntz of Crestwood will be committeeman of the fourth precinct which will include that part of Midlothian west of Crawford.

The boundaries of the new precinct will be from 155th and Crawford, west on 155th to Central ave., south on Central to 167th, east on 167th to Cicero, north of Cicero to 159th, east on 159th to Crawford, north to 155th. The polling place will probably be at the Rock Island depot in Oak Forest.

The reason given for its formation is that Oak Forest residents have difficulty in getting to Clarke's corner and voting in time to make their trains, so that many do not vote.

Breaks Arm at Ball Practice

"Doug" Unger, member of the Aces team, broke his arm Friday while at practice on the new diamond. Going after a foul ball, he tripped over a wire which had been strung around the field. He was treated at the Midlothian Health Resort.

Big Crowd at Barn Dance

Although the attendance was rather poor at the Republican club picnic Sunday afternoon, in the evening a big crowd turned out for the barn dance. Among the prominent men who attended were John Jaranowski, Frank Kwiz and Frank Foster.

In the afternoon races were held for the youngsters.

Forest Ridge Garden Club

Mrs. E. Triviss Chairman of the garden department of the Forest Ridge Women's club and Mrs. A. Triviss chairman of the flower guild of the Garden club of Forest Ridge wish to thank the members who so kindly gave of their flowers and fruit for the fruit, plant and flower guild. Three weeks ago a huge carton of peonies about three hundred blooms were sent in, two weeks ago it took two large cartons to hold all of the flowers. Last week huge bunches of peonies, daisies, delphinium, larkspurs, crocuses, gaillardia, sweet william, gypsophylla, pentstemon, and huge bunches of roses of all kinds.

Forty bunches of pansies made up tiny bouquets with the baby rambler roses and candy tuft made a pleasing effect and would bring joy to the hearts of forty sick bed ridden patients.

Bundles of rhubarb were also sent in. Mrs. Snedden, Rudd, Ohnell, Berg, Roy Hock, Sharp, O'Brien, St. Germain, Harnish, E. and A. Triviss and Mrs. Smith of Phoenix farms were the donors. Little Winston and Junior St. Germain, Frank Gilbert Smith, the two tiny Rudd children and Junior Ohnell sent their donations in for the little sick children. These tiny tots range in ages from three to five years of age, but have already learned the love of giving those less fortunate.

The first judging of the children's gardens took place last week under the supervision of Mrs. St. Germain, Mrs. J. Berg and Mrs. E. Sharp.

Thirty-four gardens were entered in this contest and more plans still coming in. There are nine different divisions vegetables, flowers and combination of flower and vegetables in the following grades, 1 to 3, 4 to 6 and 7 to 8. Three boys are putting in half acre gardens and a watermelon garden is also entered. This wonderful work was started by Mrs. Charles Smith the president of the Garden club of Forest Ridge and is being ably carried on by Mrs. St. Germain and her committee.

CHARLES DEBBING TAKES MEN TO HOSPITAL

Charles Debbing of Oak Forest drove by 111th and Cicero Monday afternoon just in time to witness one of the worst accidents of the year. Two cars had come together, completely wrecking both and tossing them 150 feet into the prairie.

The driver of one car, Joe L. Cripe, 316 Chicago ave., Goshen, Ind., was instantly killed. Stanley Hainks, 12145 Sangamon, received a broken ankle; Andrew Dyszka, driver of the other car, 12028 Lowe ave., a broken pelvic bone; Walter Kloptka, a broken shoulder bone. Mr. Debbing took two of the men to the Little Company of Mary Hospital at 95th and California and notified Willow Springs police.

The inquest was postponed to August 15 at the village hall in Oak Lawn. No eyewitnesses have appeared.

WATER ASSOCIATION RULING

The board of directors of the Midlothian Gardens Water association last week notified the members that the sprinkling hours would be between 7 and 8 p. m., and that after that hour the pressure would be reduced. Only one hour in 24 is allowed for sprinkling. The reason given is that the equipment is now overtaxed.

The two evenings following this announcement there was no water available at this hour for any purpose.

Woman's Club Activities

A very pleasant afternoon was spent by members of the Woman's Club and their friends last Friday, when a card party and bunco was held. There were 32 women present.

Winners of the Bridge prizes were: Mrs. Andrew Berg, first, Mrs. Fred Baker, second, and Mrs. Homer Sykes, third; 500 prizes were won by: Mrs. Alfred Terry, first, Mrs. E. J. Dillon, second; bunco winners were: Mrs. W. Gundlach, first, Mrs. Fred Kraft, second, Lorraine Sippy, booby.

Ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Edward Struke, and Mrs. Michael Hollearrn.

John Orgel Scalded As Still Blows Up

County police sergt. John Orgel of Forest Ridge was scalded and patrolman Walter Remillard of Chicago Heights was so badly injured that he is not expected to live as the result of the explosion of a still late Thursday night. Mr. Orgel was burned about the back and leg; his injuries are painful, but not very dangerous. It is expected that he can leave the Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, in about a week.

Altho a Chicago morning paper reported the location of the still as in Markham, Chief Paul Swanson states that it was situated at 180th and Marshfield in the city of Harvey.

According to reports, the police were on Governor's highway when they smelled mash, following the odor they located the 150 gallon still in a garage in the rear of a brick bungalow. Trying to trap the cookers, they hid in the garage.

Without warning the still exploded, covering them with boiling alcohol. Orgel tore off his coat and helped his companion, taking him to the hospital. Later the still exploded again, setting fire to the garage.

WE CONGRATULATE

THE BOARD

Notable progress is being made by the board of trustees of Midlothian. Within the last few weeks members have shown little partisan bitterness and have shown a lively interest in the welfare of the village.

Two of the greatest needs of any progressive community—a sane building ordinance and a zoning ordinance that restricts without working hardships—are being worked out.

The board is endeavoring to get sidewalks where they are wanted.

Roads are being repaired as money is available. Stop and go signs and street markers are under consideration. A playground has been dedicated.

Before the board is the question of sewage and drainage.

It is a problem with much planning and hard work. If the sanitary district will provide an outlet and intercepting sewer—as they are reported as planning to do—the village may get a permanent improvement of inestimable value.

Another problem that will need much thought is the need of adequate water. Now while little work can be financed, much can be accomplished by well considered planning.

A SEVERE TEST

A concrete example of the tremendous strides made by automotive engineers toward the goal of mechanical perfection in the modern motor car is provided daily on the Pikes Peak Highway.

A few years ago, a car that would scale the Peak was a front-page feature throughout the country, while today, thanks to the automotive engineer, a car's ability to perform ably and satisfactorily in the thin rarefied air and on the long steep ascents of the Peak is taken more or less for granted.

Despite a greatly improved highway up the Peak, the long continuous climb and the light air pressure in the high altitudes, which used to mean a boiling radiator and an engine too hot to make the grade, provide one of the severest tests in America of the mechanical condition of a car.

Even more outstanding than the performance of those tourists automobiles which make a single trip up the steep incline is the record of a fleet of trucks used to maintain the highway in constant repair. The fleet now in such service includes three Chevrolets sixes which see almost daily use up in the region above the cloud-levels.

Recently the fleet has been used to haul away huge mountains of snow to prepare the highway for the summer tourist travel. The route was expected to be opened early in June. With the snow cleared away, the fleet will continue in daily service doing maintenance and repair work on the highway.

The Chevrolets used in this work have been in operation for more than a year. That the cars are operating today with the same degree of economy and dependability as a

In the warning published last week, the editor unintentionally belittled the speed of the truck by warning against passing the machine. Instead, the warning was intended against passing the machines of firemen hindering them in getting to the fire and endangering lives.

With celebration plans for July Fourth in the making, Dr. Andy Hall, state health director, in a recently issued bulletin, calls attention to the danger of tetanus from powder-burn wounds. Due to accidents in connection with fireworks displays, the death rate from tetanus in July is twice that of any other month, the bulletin states.

"The peculiar type of wound made by powder explosions greatly favors the onset of tetanus or lockjaw," Doctor Hall said. "Dirty contused wounds, the kind most frequently made by powder burns, are just the type which increases liability to lockjaw, and these are the kind most likely to result from Independence day accidents. All wounds from powder burns should be dressed surgically, and the victim given tetanus antitoxin. Germicides like iodine and mercurochrome are useless in dealing with tetanus. Delay in treatment is likewise dangerous."

Building activity in Illinois is responding slowly but surely to the influence of warmer weather, according to a recent report of the bureau of statistics, Illinois department of labor. In May, 3,336 building projects were authorized in the 45 reporting cities of the state, with a contemplated expenditure of $18,457,242. While this represents an increase of 6.9 per cent in number of permits and 53.3 per cent in valuation over the preceding month, it is still 23 per cent less in number of permits and 59.8 per cent in valuation than was reported in May, 1929.

Boys greatly outnumber girls among children registered so far for the state Better Babies conference. Ordinarily girls have outnumbered boys from the outset. Headed by Dr. Grace S. Wightman, chief of the state division of child hygiene, the staff will include a number of child specialists and pediatricians whose training and long experience insure for each child an examination which would be difficult to duplicate without considerable cost. Arrangements have been made to examine 1,000 children. Only children registered in advance of the opening of the conference and on application blanks available from the state department of health will be accepted for examination.

State institution property, maintained by the department of public welfare for the care of nearly 40,000 wards of Illinois, was valued at upward of $43,292,696.65, as of June 30, 1929, according to the fiscal report now in preparation under the supervision of Director Rodney H. Brandon. Since July 1, 1929, additional construction that has been or will be completed soon, will increase the value of this property to the extent of approximately $10,000,000. This represents the beginning of the construction program sponsored by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson to relieve the serious overcrowding in the penal and charitable institutions.

A baby elk has arrived at the state fair grounds, making the total there now six members of the elkdom. Manager Jones is asking the public to suggest a name.

George Huskinson, superintendent of the division of insurance, who has served longer in that department than any man in the history of the state, submitted his voluntary resignation to Governor Emmerson, to take effect July 1. In accepting the resignation the governor complimented Mr. Huskinson upon the fine record he had made. In 1897 he came to the department as an actuary from Alton, and was with the department in various positions from that time on, with the exception of about three years during the Governor Lowden administration, when he took up work as state auditor. He returned to the insurance department as assistant superintendent in 1920 under Governor Small, who appointed him superintendent in 1927. After a vacation, to be spent in Colorado, Mr. Huskinson will accept one of two business connections he has now under consideration. Harry V. Hanson, assistant director of the department of trade and commerce, has been appointed by Governor Emmerson to succeed Mr. Huskinson as superintendent of the division. Mr. Hanson served under the governor for many years while he was secretary of state and was appointed to the assistant directorship soon after Mr. Emmerson became governor.

Justice Warren H. Orr, of Carthage, has taken his place on the Supreme court bench, the oath of office having been administered by Justice Frank K. Dunn a few days before the closing of the June term.

Promising the most elaborate and interesting health display ever prepared for the Illinois state fair, the state department of public health has announced plans for presenting 1,500 square feet of exhibit material never before shown. Built in units, each devoted entirely to one subject, these exhibits will offer to visitors an opportunity for gaining a practical knowledge about the cause, the characteristics and the methods of control, cure and prevention of such diseases as pneumonia, tuberculosis, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

Forty-five years of continuous service as master in chancery of the Circuit court of Jersey county is a record that apparently has never been duplicated by any man in Illinois and so "Uncle Joe" Page, veteran editor of the Jerseyville Democrat, was visited personally by Robert L. Conn, from the office of the clerk of the Supreme court, and handed a message of congratulation from the seven members of the Supreme court. In presenting it Mr. Conn referred to many features that have made Editor Page's long life one of exceptional value not only to his home community but to the state and nation as well. He is eighty-five years old, celebrated recently his fifty-sixth wedding anniversary, and his mental and physical vigor is such as to be the envy of many a younger man.

Forty states, the District of Columbia, and 32 foreign countries were represented by the mental cases who began receiving treatment at the state's hospitals for the insane in 1929. Director Rodney H. Brandon of the department of public welfare has announced, Illinois' percentage of the total native admissions was 61.63 per cent as compared with 60.95 per cent in 1928. Of the total, 74 per cent were native born and 24.6 per cent foreign born.

The Lima lake fish rescue project, just completed by field representatives of the department of conservation, has saved a total of 130 tons, or about 832,000 fish. Director Ralph F. Bradford announced today, upon completion of the drainage of that area and its restoration for cultivation, "Anticipating the drainage of the big slough at Lima lake," Director Bradford said, "the entire fish population has been seined out or captured at the outlet of the lake and transferred to the Mississippi river, the total tonnage being transported by truck with a minimum of loss." The lake for many years afforded splendid fishing for Adams and adjacent counties, but has given way to agriculture, to form a great drainage district.

Two past presidents of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers gave five-day non-credit courses in parent-teacher work at Illinois teachers' colleges this summer. Mrs. Herbert W. Whitten of Carthage taught at the Western Illinois State Teachers' college at Macomb, June 23 to 27, inclusive, and Mrs. Harry L. Fleming of Bloomington taught during the same period at the Illinois State Normal university at Normal.

Nonchurch communities vote 100 per cent while church communities vote only 12 per cent at ordinary municipal elections, members of the National Council of Federated Church Women were told at their annual meeting at the Shoreland hotel, Chicago. Christian citizenship committees are being organized in the large cities of the country. Mrs. Martha Trimble, chairman, declared to urge Christian citizens to help put down crime through the exercise of the ballot.

The second of the names of great Illinois citizens that is inscribed on the Centennial building is that of Edward Coles, second governor of Illinois. It was during his term of office that the great struggle to amend the constitution of the state so as to permit slavery within its bounds occurred. Vote of the people was against holding the convention, and to Governor Coles is due in a large measure the success of the anti-slavery party and the credit for keeping Illinois a free state. Governor Coles was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, December 15, 1783; he died in Philadelphia, July 7, 1868.

September babies enjoy the greatest chance of survival according to the state health department which issued a statement pointing out that 10 per cent of the children born in January perish during infancy while only 7 per cent of the September arrivals succumb. The explanation seems to be in the fact that prospective mothers eat more foods rich in vitamins during the summer when vegetables are plentiful and cheap, the statement read. "If all babies born in Illinois last year had arrived between May and December 2,000 more of them would have survived their first year," the statement continued.

Bovine tuberculosis tests performed during the month of May established a new record in the volume of work performed, and, in some sections of the state the percentage of infection is found lowest in the history of the disease eradication program, according to the report received recently by the director of agriculture, Stuart E. Pierson, from the division of animal industry.

Russell R. Clark, for several years an assistant supervisor of industrial rehabilitation work among crippled persons in Illinois, has been appointed supervisor by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Francis G. Blair.

Under ordinary circumstances a board of education does not have the right to purchase land outside the school district for an athletic field or recreation ground, according to an opinion handed down by Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom. An exception would be in the case of a school located adjacent to the boundary of the district in which, it was stated, the site could be purchased outside if property within the district necessarily was too inaccessible or prohibitive in cost.

ABRAHAM, A PIONEER OF FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-3; 13:1-12; 14:14-16; 17:1-8; Heb. 11:8-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing God by Obedience.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Abraham, the Pioneer.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Pioneering in an Unknown Country.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Man Who Found Friendship with God.

I. Abraham's Call (12:1).

Abraham's ancestors were idolatrous. God came unto him in Ur of the Chaldees and said unto him,

1. "Get thee out of thy country." It was necessary for him to break the strong attachments which bound him.

2. Get thee out "from thy kindred." He was not only to leave behind him his native land, but his relatives as well. His kindred being idolaters, he must separate himself from them.

3. "Into a land that I will show thee." He was not told what or where the land was.

II. God's Covenant with Abraham (12:2, 3; 17:1-8).

1. What God promised to Abraham. (1) To make him the father of a great posterity (v. 2). This has been literally fulfilled. (2) To make his name great (v. 2). No name in all history equals that of Abraham in its honorable influence. It is revered among Jews, Mohammedans and Christians. They all acknowledge him as father. (3) A blessing to others (vv. 2, 3). He was not only to become great and share God's blessings, but to be a blessing to others.

2. The land given unto him (17:8). Although Abraham was a pilgrim, he was permitted to sojourn in the land. The land itself was given to his seed, Israel—God's chosen and most favored nation. The nation to which He came nearest and gave most, in order that it might pass on his goodness to the other nations of the world, was given the most strategic position in the earth.

While the Hebrews have failed in the fulfillment of their divinely appointed task and the world is in chaos because of it, they shall go back to their old land and fulfill their divinely appointed task.

III. Abraham's Generous Treatment of Lot (13:1-12; 14:1-16).

While Abraham sojourned in Egypt, having gone there because of the famine in Canaan, he grew rich in worldly goods. Because of his deception of the king, he was thrust out of Egypt when the truth became known.

1. Abraham and Lot separate (vv. 5-12).

Seeing that their temporal relations would engender strife and provoke quarreling, and knowing the disastrous effect upon the heathen round about, Abraham gave Lot his choice. Though Lot owed everything to Abraham, his selfish heart moved him to grasp for the best, and his decision ultimately brought him to grief. He prospered for awhile, but eventually not only his goods, but he himself and his family were taken away by the confederate kings who came against Sodom.

2. Abraham delivers Lot (14:14-16). Though Lot's trouble was the fruit of his own sowing, Abraham's magnanimity of soul moved him to take up arms and deliver Lot from the oppressor. While Lot suffered from his selfish choice, Abraham prospered.

IV. Abraham's Faith (Heb. 11:8-10).

1. Its source (v. 8).
The word of God. Faith takes God at His word.

2. Its practice (vv. 9, 10). Abraham never settled down, even in the land of promise. He was a true pilgrim. He was content to pass through the land because his eyes were fixed on "a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God."

V. Abraham Tested (Heb. 11:17-19).

1. At the command of God he offered up Isaac (v. 17).

He went out from the country in obedience to God. He laid down his son on the altar in obedience to God.

2. The promise of blessing was wrapped up in Isaac (v. 18).
The promise involved this particular child, not just any descendant.

3. The supreme venture (v. 19). He so completely trusted God that he went all the way. He believed that God would raise up Isaac from the dead in order to make good His promise.

One of His Heroes

To go on cheerfully with a petty round of little duties, little avocations, to smile for the joy of others when the heart is aching . . . who does this, his works will follow him. He may not be a hero to the world, but he is one of God's heroes.—Doctor Farrar.

Asking God's Guidance

There is nothing so small but that we honor God by asking his guidance in it, or insult Him by taking it into our own hands.—John Ruskin.

CHURCH TO BE NATIONAL SHRINE

View showing old St. Paul's, in Mount Vernon, and a corner of the graveyard. This structure was once used as headquarters by General Washington. A plan is afoot to restore it because of its associations with the country's early life.

Plan to Restore Old St. Paul's in Mt. Vernon

Announcement that St. Paul's Eastchester Episcopal church in Mount Vernon would be made into a national historic and religious shrine recalls that the original church of that name was built before 1665.

It is the plan of the rector, Rev. W. Harold Weigle, resident chaplain of the Episcopal Actors' guild, and his vestry, to restore the present church, which is one hundred sixty-seven years old, to establish a museum, and to build an outdoor sanctuary in one corner of the graveyard. A drive for $300,000 with which to make the transformation is being started by the parish.

St. Paul's Eastchester is older by a few years than St. Paul's chapel, Broadway and Fulton street, which was built by the British and later became part of the Trinity parish of the Protestant Episcopal church. The parish of St. Paul's Eastchester goes much further back, and is one of the oldest in America.

Hospital in Revolution.

Services have been held there for 265 years with only one break. That was when the building was commandeered as a hospital in the Revolutionary war. The church stands near the intersection of South Columbus avenue and South Third avenue, Mount Vernon, accessible by way of the Boston Post road or the Kingsbridge Road station of the New York, Westchester and Boston railroad.

It was a center of worship before there was a good road to Boston. It has a churchyard with gravestones dating back 226 years, or 72 years before our government was founded. Aaron Burr practiced law there when the church was used as a courthouse. The names of many families linked to the early development of our country were on the rolls of the old Eastchester church.

Ground Fought Over.

Located in the very path of the Revolutionary struggle, old St. Paul's was in the area traversed in going to Connecticut and New England, just eight miles north of the settlement of New York. The strip between Long Island sound and the Hudson was the famous "neutral ground" of American history, because it was not for long in the hands either of the British or the Colonials.

The present stone edifice stands on the very spot occupied by the first meeting house, and is the third building which has served the parish surrounding Eastchester green. It appears to have started near an Indian path, which subsequently became Kingsbridge road. It was called "Hutchinson's" in the early days, after Anne Hutchinson.

It retained this title until 1666, when by royal charter it was enacted that " . . . the plantation shall continue and retain ye name of Eastchester. . . ." The name was taken from that of Chester, England.

LET HER GO!

This youngster evidently doesn't hold with a "safe and sane" Fourth.

Courage Shown by Hamilton on Monmouth Field

What lover of American freedom can read of the part played by Colonel Hamilton without a sense of pride and emotion? A mere boy—just the age of Lafayette—commanding an artillery company at nineteen; lieutenant colonel on the staff of Washington, and at Yorktown in 1781, in the presence of three armies, leading the assault on the redoubt on the night of October 14, with a brilliancy of courage and success that could not be surpassed. Indeed, a monument built as big as the Treasury building itself would not be too large for Alexander Hamilton.

For his great encouragement to the commander in chief—to whom he even served for a while as confidential secretary—all Americans owe a debt of gratitude. Nor will history ever fail to record the loyalty to his chief, nobly displayed at the battle of Monmouth, during a temporary reverse brought on by the retreat of 5,000 picked officers and men under command of Maj. Gen. Charles Lee.

George Washington Parke Custis, grandson of Mrs. Washington and adopted son of the first President, gives an interesting account of this episode. He tells us:

"As the commander in chief, accompanied by a numerous suite, approached the vicinity of Monmouth Courthouse, he was met by a little fier boy, who archly observed, 'They are all coming this way, your honor.' 'Who are coming, my little man?' asked General Knox. 'Why, our boys, your honor, our boys, and the British are right after them,' replied the little musician. 'Impossible!' exclaimed Washington. And giving a spur to his charger, he proceeded at full gallop to an eminence a short distance ahead. There, to his extreme pain and mortification, it was discovered that the boy's intelligence was but too true.

"The very elite of the American army, 5,000 picked officers and men, were in full retreat, closely pursued by the enemy. The first inquiry of the chief was for Major General Lee, who commanded the advance, and who soon appeared, when a warm conversation ensued that ended by the major general being ordered to the rear.

"During this interview an incident of rare and chivalric interest occurred. Lieutenant Colonel Hamilton, aide to the general in chief, leaped from his horse, and drawing his sword, addressed the general with, 'We are betrayed; your excellency, and this army is betrayed, and the moment has arrived when every true friend of America and her cause must be ready to die in her defense.'

"Washington, charmed with the generous enthusiasm of his favorite aide, yet deeming the same ill-timed, pointing to the colonel's horse that was cropping the herbage, unconscious of the great scene enacting around him, calmly observed, 'Colonel Hamilton, you will take your horse.'

"The general in chief now set himself in earnest about restoring the fortunes of the day."

It was here that Sergeant Molly (Molly Pitcher) made her name famous by performing the duties of an expert artilleryman.—John Claggett Proctor, in the Washington Star.

Famous Yorktown

The battle of Yorktown took place on October 6, 1781. The place was defended by a British army under Lord Cornwallis and was besieged by the allied forces of French and Americans under General Washington and Count de Rochambeau. On the 19th of October Cornwallis surrendered. There were 5,950 men in the British army, and in the allied forces there were 9,000 Americans and 7,000 Frenchmen. The losses were: British 552 killed and wounded and American and French 300 killed and wounded.

HATE

By ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH

ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH

"They're off!" shouted the merchant.

"Off? Nonsense, sir, my lookouts—" "No, no! I mean Ben and the girl—and that creature that tends her I saw 'em, Fellowes. Saw 'em pile out of their house, bag and baggage. They came in a coach, but I beat 'em. By G—d, I ran a race!"

Knuckles battered the door, and Tom Grogan rolled into the cabin.

"Mr. Spencer's compliments, cap'n, and thar's two smallboats comin' alongside the True Bounty, and her hands aloft on the yards."

"You're right," exclaimed Fellowes, jumping for the companionway.

The night had turned clear when he reached the deck, and the stillness in the air indicated one of those calms which precede a radical shift of wind. Spencer, the first lieutenant, a gruff, bearded sea-dog—whose proud boast was that he'd "sailed with Bowditch, the navigator"—sniffed uneasily like a dog hunting a trail.

"Aye, aye, Captain," he responded to a question. "Something's brewin', but don't ask me what. I'd say a nor'wester, if 'twasn't for them stars."

Breed, the Virginian second lieutenant, who seldom spoke, held up a forefinger for attention.

"What's that?" he asked in his soft voice.

"That," was a distant murmur in the air, and glancing across the roofs and trees of the city toward the Hudson, Fellowes noticed a low bank of clouds drifting above the Palisades.

"Here she comes! Topmen aloft, Mr. Spencer," he ordered crisply. "Double-reef tops'ls. Mr. Breed, make haste with that anchor."

There was a rush of men to their stations, ratlines twanging under the push of seaboots. Peering downstream through nightglasses, Fellowes caught a momentary glimpse of the upper yards of the True Bounty, ghostly with drooping canvas, before the thickening darkness blanketed her.

"But—but—you're really going?" Joshua quavered beside him.

"Yes, sir, and we'll be hugging the True Bounty's tailrail," Fellowes assured his employer. "But you must be going, sir. The river will be wet for you when that wind strikes us."

Joshua paused at the gangway, and grasped Fellowes' hand, a look of concern on his rubicund features.

"You must hate, remember," he pleaded. "With all of yourself. Not just one of 'em. The whole lot. And if you feel you're slacking up on one of 'em, why, bear down harder on her—ah—him."

"I dare swear I'll be able to, sir," Fellowes answered sadly. "Good-by, and bid your wherryman row for their lives."

"Lives, h—l!" rejoined Joshua, mercurially elated. "Nothing can happen to me—not until after I've caught Ben." His voice was indistinct as he descended the Jacob's ladder. "You're safe—if—hate—enough. Hah, damme!" A bump announced his arrival in the wherry. "Good luck! A fat cruise! And hate, man, hate. Hate will see us through."

Fellowes turned from the gangway. A moan came out of the west, and a scunner of clouds blotted the sky. The moan tightened to a screech, and the gale hit them, physically vindictive, a monster that bellowed and clashed and yammered in the rigging, bent on piling the brig against the walls of Castle William that towered unseen above the Governors Island shore. But the Centurion bore up nobly, light as a cork for all her burden of men and armament, faithful to her helm.

Rearing like a racehorse on the choppy combers, she edged safely around the west tip of the island, and squared away for the run down the Upper bay, a bowl of empty night, save for the True Bounty and the whooping wind. Fellowes was chagrined to find he could no longer discern the True Bounty. In desperation, he summoned Cuffee, whose vision, he knew, was better than any white man's—and Cuffee made short work of the difficulty.

"Cuffee no see him lan', Mars'r Fellowe, but dar him Chater ship." "Good! You take the wheel. Follow the True Bounty as closely as you can."

"Yah, Mars'r Fellowe." The brig bucked and sidled, swaying to the conflicting pressure of wind and wave and tide in the gut; but Cuffee held her to the course. Apparently, Chater steered by feel here. Fellowes realized, with his first thrill, that the Centurion was at sea. Of the blockaders there was not a trace.

"Do you still see the True Bounty?" he asked Cuffee again.

"Yah, mars'r. Him dar."

But an hour or so after midnight a frown distorted the negro's scarred features, and he exclaimed angrily in his jungle dialect.

"Lost him?" cried Fellowes.

"Yah, him juju, mars'r. One time Cuffee see him, den him gone."

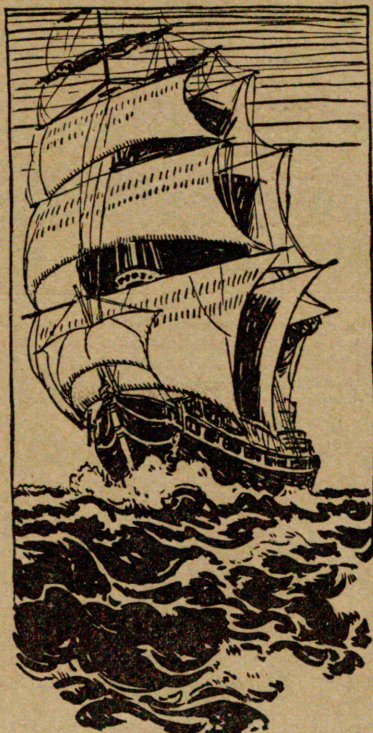

"He's no fool, Chater," Fellowes said grimly. "Mr. Spencer, take the deck, if you please. I'll turn in for a few hours."

CHAPTER X

Savor of Vengeance

Morning brought a dull, gray sky, an untiring wind—and empty horizons. Fellowes knew he must have long since outdistanced the cumbrous True Bounty, and shortened sail as much as he dared, but the Centurion fled before the gale at a fair twelve knots.

All that day and the next the nor'wester stormed after them, but during the second night it blew itself out in a snow-squall, and Fellowes wore ship to retrace his course. Studying charts, he decided the True Bounty would steer north of the usual track to the Peninsula. Chater would hug the routes of the British convoys to Canada, choosing rather to risk being overhauled by an enemy cruiser than by his own countrymen—very possibly trusting to some form of protection from Admiral Cockburn. So for four days more the Centurion beat to the northward on a zigzag course that covered many miles of sea, but it wasn't until the fifth day that the cry of "Sail ho" from the maintop sent all hands to their stations.

The strange sail made a clumsy attempt to run away, but the brig overhauled him in less than two glasses, and a musket-shot across his bows sent him flapping into the wind. An hour later the George and Anne, of Liverpool, loaded with strouds, Yorkshire woolens, crockery and hardware, was diverted from Halifax to New York, by a Yankee prize-crew in charge of her, and the Centurion bore off on her mission.

Northeast Fellowes steered on a slanting course that would carry him far to seaward of the coasting routes where the enemy cruisers kept watch and ward, far to seaward, too, of the Grand banks; but a week after the George and Anne had dwindled over the skyline a cold clammy fog wrapped the Centurion, and the privateer crawled along, with double lookouts at each masthead and on poop and fo'c's'le, the magazine open and the gun-crews mustered. That day they sailed as remote as though they had entered another world. Once a whale almost collided with them, and sounded indignantly beneath their keel. The night was so silent that the swish of the brig's cutwater could be heard aft on the poop. And the morning was as still. But noon saw a streak of sunshine overhead, and suddenly the fog-curtain was rent in tatters, and stoppers seemed to come out of their ears—for they heard all about them a muffled clamor; horns growling, tin-pans clanking, bells tolling, men shouting. A bristle of masts projected from the lingering shreds of mist, hulls took shape, scores of hulls, a stately seventy-four, flying an admiral's pennant, a brace of frigates.

"A Canada convoy," exclaimed Spencer. "We be good as stewed, cap'n."

"Not by a d—n sight," snapped Fellowes. "Aye, not if 'tis Admiral Warren, himself. Where's that signalman? Signalman, hither! Break out the Royal Navy ensign. Haste, man, haste! Now, the Stars and Stripes. Aye, you fool, on the same balyards. Run 'em up! Run 'em up!"

He leaped on the breach of a gun as the seventy-four, nearest of the men-o'-war, came squatting down from windward.

"Ahoy! What ship's that?" hailed an officer from her lofty poop, crowded with figures in blue and gold lace.

"Down, you men," Fellowes snarled at his curious crew. "Flat on the deck." And lifting speaking-trumpet to lips, returned the hail: "Aye, aye, sir! This is the American privateer Centurion, nineteen guns, Captain Lion Fellowes, out of New York—prize to the Semele frigate, Captain Lord Sandys."

Like all American privateersmen, Fellowes had been primed with the information available as to the cruising stations of the British men-o'-war, and he happened to recall that the Semele, a thirty-two, was a unit of the Jamaica squadron. The watch-officer of the seventy-four knew as much, and retorted promptly: "Where did you leave your ship, sir?"

"Off the Mona passage."

There was a moment of consultation on the enemy's poop, then the same officer hailed again:

"And your name?"

"Lieutenant Broderick, sir," Fellowes answered desperately, casting a wary eye about him for an opening to slip clear.

"Broderick, eh? You ain't rated to the Semele, sir—not by my Annual." "I am newly transferred to her, sir," Fellowes improvised. "From the Cape."

"Ha, sir! I find no Broderick listed as a lieutenant—"

A pair of Tyne traders, heavy-loaded, blundered out of a swathing of mist, and staggered aboard the Centurion. Fellowes, swift to seize the opportunity, pretended to great anxiety.

"Luff up, there, d—n 'ye," he hailed the first of the merchantmen, with all the typical arrogance of a navy officer. "What d'ye mean, my man! Luff up, I say! Here, you at the wheel—to his own helmsman—" "bear away from the rascals. By the Fiend, they'll run us down!"

Skilfully, he interposed the hapless traders between the brig and the seventy-four, and urged his topmen aloft.

"Jump, lads!" he shouted. "Get every stitch on her, if you'd not see Dartmoor."

The Centurion's hands responded with yelps of appreciation, swarming the yards, regardless of a ragged fire of musketry from the seventy-four, which had begun to smell a rat. The fog, still swirling at different levels, obscured the situation for other ships. The frigates, mindful of their special duty, the guarding of the convoy's flanks and rear, contented themselves with discharging warning-guns for the laggards to move up. The seventy-four, cramping on all sail, tried to wear past the officious traders; but she was an old Spanish prize, broad-beamed and slow, and before she could bring her forward divisions to bear the privateer had interposed other vessels of the convoy to cover herself. The confusion was prodigious. Individual ships changed their courses; a slovenly Irish brig rammed a Southampton ship, and was roundly cursed; cannon boomed, and every fog-horn, tinpan, drum or bell in the fleet was set to work.

Incubators in Use in Egypt Ancient Models

The incubator for hatching chickens is probably as old as history, which in the Mediterranean region runs back more than 4,500 years. There were, doubtless, incubators in Egypt before Moses was born, and to this day in that country they are just what they were in the lifetime of the great Hebrew leader.

The art of hatching chickens is handed down from generation to generation, from father to son, a secret craft. Baby chicks are an important article of trade, and they are produced by millions for rearing.

The typical Egyptian incubator is a rude and cumbersome affair when compared with the modern device. It is a building of considerable size, of sundried brick. Through it run one or more passages, and on both sides of each passage are ovens (so to call them) in two tiers. The oven at the ground level has a small door; the one directly above it is entered from beneath through a manhole. The ovens are arranged in pairs, one below and the other above. The eggs are placed in the lower oven, and a fire is lighted on the floor of the oven overhead, to furnish the warmth requisite for hatching.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Nickel Steel Rail Joints

For increasing the comfort of the traveler and lengthening the life of the rails, the dips or hollows at the points where the rails connect are fused by electric arc welding. This melts the rail to a depth of one-eighth of an inch and fuses thereon a deposit of 5 per cent nickel steel, which is nearly 50 per cent harder than the rail itself.

CHIC "GOING AWAY" COSTUME; FOR THE DAINTY FLOWER GIRL

AFTER her wedding gown of tulle, satin, lace, orange blossoms and all things lovely, the next number on the bride's dress program, and one of outstanding importance, is her "going away" costume. Of course Mrs. Newlywed aspires to appear at her most charming and chic as she and herself make a smiling exit amid showers of rice, eager to catch train

Not so "strictly tailored" is the bride in the panel. Her bolero costume is styled of navy flat crepe. The soft-tied bows add a feminine touch. Among other of her possessions this bride has a lovely lace blouse to wear with this silk two-piece, likewise a cunning short sleeved model of dotted swiss, one of rose-color handkerchief linen which is lavishly frilled. The or boat which shall bear them away to honeymoon lands.

To choose a smartly tailored two-piece for travel wear, always bespeaks good judgment. The thought takes on special allure this season, since the blouse is being made to play a role of unusual fascination in the present-day world of fashion. Under the caption blouse, designers are putting forth the most beguiling models fancy can picture. Wherefore the bride who chooses a tailored suit can at will change the character of her costume through the magic of its accompanying blouse.

As to whether the two-piece tailleur be of wool or of silk is optional, for as far as fashion is concerned, the honors are about equally divided between the two. There is this in favor of modern woollens, being delightfully lightweight they are very adaptable to summer comfort. Then, too, the flair for color, latest fad in corsage bouquets even for those who are not brides is white orchids, and she is wearing just such.

The Important Flower Girl.

It is not only the prideful feeling of being flower girl that counts with the very young, but after the wedding scene becomes just a memory, little Miss Flower-Maiden is going to experience continued joy in the possession of a perfectly lovely frock to wear to parties for a long time to come.

Which is the reason why mothers should make it a point to look to the future in selecting a dress which will not only add a touch of beauty to the bridal cortege, but which will throughout months following answer the question for little daughter of "what to wear" at this festive occasion or that to which she is invited.

The charming flower girl in the picture is exquisitely gowned in a dainty frock of pink mousseline de soie, thus again emphasizing the voguishness of sheer weaves for this summer. It is made over a slip of satin, inset with ecru lace. The simplicity of its fashioning has much to do with its attractiveness. A unique touch is the tied-over-the-shoulder rose-tinted ribbons which calls for delectable tones and tints, imparts a new appeal to woolen weaves.

The bride to left in the upper picture, whose luggage is as smart as her costume, chooses for travel wear a patrician tailleur in bright blue-tweed. The coat is cleverly belted and the skirt is seamed to give a graceful flare. A jaunty blouse of egg-shell satin, a draped beret hat or blue belting, a navy suede envelope bag and doekin gloves, are all items which contribute to the refinement and elegance of the ensemble. Her trim pumps are cuban heeled and are fashioned of black reptile. There is one bride-like touch of course—the shoulder bouquet of white gardenias and lilies of the valley.

which serve instead of the usual built-in self-fabric straps. Hand-run pin tucking, the wee tucks crowded as close as it is possible to crowd them, achieving a graceful fullness which terminates in a hemline flounced with soft ruffles. It seems that fancy is turning directly to monotone chiffons and similar transparencies for summer frocks for both grownups and children. For these the favorite trimming is a pretty profusion of self-fabric ruffles.

Net, especially point d'esprit, also organdie are outstanding media for flower girl frocks. Short-waisted, full-skirted silhouettes are sponsored with ribbon sashes tied at the back.

ICE BOX DAINTIES

For those who have the electric refrigeration the following recipes will be helpful and suggestive:

Refrigerator Dessert.—Allow four thin crisp cookies, plain or chocolate, for each serving. Take one-half pint of heavy cream whipped for a serving of six. Flavor and sweeten the cream, then spread a cookie, top it with another and more cream until four are used, finish the top with a bit of cream and a cherry. Let stand four hours in the ice box. Serve on chilled plates.

Frozen Peanut Butter.—Cream two cream cheese with a fork, add one-half cupful each of chopped green pepper, celery and pimientos; one-third cupful of peanut butter, one-half teaspoonful each of paprika and salt, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and one-fourth of a cupful of mayonnaise. Mix well then fold in one-fourth cupful of heavy cream. Put into the freezing tray and freeze until firm. Serve on lettuce with a rose of mayonnaise.

Strawberry Mousse.—Take three-fourths of a cupful of crushed strawberries, after the juice has been drained off. Add one-fourth cupful of confectioners' sugar, a teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of heavy cream whipped. Mix lightly and pile into the tray. Dot with halves of cut berries, cut-side up to look like hearts.

Cocoa Charlotte Russe.—Dilute four tablespoonfuls of cocoa with one-fourth cupful of boiling water, cool, add two cupfuls of heavy cream whipped until stiff, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of orange or any flavored fruit juice, one teaspoonful of vanilla. Line a mold with lady fingers, trim to fit mold, fill with the cream mixture, cover and chill three hours. Unmold on a serving dish and serve with chilled whipped cream.

Apricot Parfait.—Drain the juice from a can of apricots, add one-fourth cupful of sugar and boil ten minutes. Pour the sirup over stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and cool. Press drained apricots through a coarse sieve and chill for twenty minutes. Whip two-thirds of a cupful of whipping cream and add the apricot pulp, mixing lightly but thoroughly, then combine with the chilled sirup and egg mixture, again mixing well. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Frozen Peaches.—Boil together two cupfuls of sugar and one quart of water ten minutes, add one quart of ripe peaches peeled and put through a sieve, chill and add one pint of heavy cream whipped until stiff; flavor with almond and beat well. Pour into the tray and freeze. Serve as frappe in glasses.

BANANA DESSERTS

The banana is one of our most popular and well liked fruits, one we can always find in our markets and it deserves a chapter all for itself.

Banana Bavarois.—Scald one cupful of milk in a double boiler. Stir in two teaspoonfuls of gelatin previously soaked in two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Add one cupful of sugar and when cold and it commences to set stir in one cupful of banana pulp and one cupful of whipped cream. Pour into a mold and place on ice to set. Serve with:

Mousseline Sauce.—Bring one cupful of milk to a boil, add one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of flavoring, mix well, set aside to cool, then add one-half cupful of whipped cream.

Banana and Coconut Dessert.—Cut four bananas into four pieces, place in a buttered pan and sprinkle with three teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Beat an egg white until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Add one-half cupful of shredded coconut, put a tablespoonful of this meringue on each section of banana. Bake until brown. Serve with whipped cream.

Banana Bread Pudding.—Take three slices of bread or three rolls, break into small pieces. Pour over this two cupfuls of milk, one-half cupful of sugar, four bananas sliced, stir in lightly two beaten egg whites and bake for half an hour. Serve hot with a sauce using the two egg yolks beaten well, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and a cupful of boiling milk; stir and flavor, then serve hot. A little lemon juice and rind may be used for the flavoring.

Banana Fluff.—Cut one-half pound of fresh marshmallows into small pieces. Whip one cupful of heavy cream, add one teaspoonful of vanilla, one-half cupful of sugar, a bit of salt, stir in the marshmallows, one cupful of broken nuts (less may be used), and one cupful of banana pulp finely mashed. Serve with crushed strawberries, or over ice cream of any flavor.
